Only in Pigeon Racing. At 57 years of age, I have been very fortunate in my life to be successfully involved in various competitive sports – HUMAN AND ANIMAL. Only in the pigeon sport have I ever heard of evaluating athletes by “EYE SIGN”. I have never witnessed nor heard of coaches, owners, general mangers or parents looking into the eyes of their players, young children or livestock with a “jeweler’s loupe” to see if they were going to be a good performer, top breeder, sprinter ...

Eye theory in practice for racing pigeons - Farmer's Weekly

The first thing we notice about a pigeon eye, even without optical aids, is the pupil. The pupil is nothing more than an opening in the coloured iris and the deep black is nothing more than a piece of the retina. Images are broken by the lens at the front of the eye and projected smaller onto the retina.

However, both maintain that the percentage of good racing pigeons can be increased substantially by breeding only with birds with the eye sign common to good breeders. Nevertheless, both fanciers also emphasize different aspects of the eye sign concept which does not make one right or wrong. One could look at the same eye, as I have done here, and see the attributes emphasized by various eye sign enthusiasts.

As in the eye and wing theory too many fanciers pay too much attention to peculiarities in the muscle system of a pigeon. Conclusion A top class pigeon is born with the good features that make it a top class pigeon and it is a good thing for our sport that we can only get a clear idea of the quality of a pigeon by simply basketing it.

here is based on my own experience and, in my view, is backed by results. Beware of the “eye sign” experts. This warning will save you cash and the heads of many good pigeons. Firstly, if a so-called “eye sign” expert examines your pigeons’ eyes and tells you which to cull, politely guide him off your property.

The racing pigeons eye is very complex. It serves as a cooling area for the blood before it goes to the brain and returns to the heart via the return arteries. If you look into the pigeons throat you will see veins at the back center and on both sides. The thicker this vein is in the center will it better supply blood to the brain.
